BERNARD SPARKS KILLED IN ACTION

Mrs. Perrot received word last week that her brother, Bernard Sparks, was killed in action on November 6. A shell is said to have burst in the trench where he was standing, killing him instantly.

Bernard Sparks was born in Devonshire, England, and came to Alberta about four years ago. He was well known in Claresholm, having lived here for nearly two years, working most of the time for J. W. Hallett. He was a young man of good character and was respected by all who knew him. He left here in July, 1915, with Rev. J. M. Harrison, intending to take charge of Mr. Harrison's fruit ranch in Summerland, but a few weeks later he heard the call of the empire and enlisted in a British Columbia battalion which was recruiting at Vernon. His regiment left for overseas in October, 1915, and he was reported in the trenches early this last spring. A letter was received from him a few weeks ago, stating that he was engaged in telephoning and signalling. The message telling of his death was sent to his home in Devonshire, and from there by letter to his sister in Claresholm. Thus as the war goes on, more and more it is impressed upon us that "others are suffering and dying for us in Europe."

THE UNEXPECTED HAPPENED

The unexpected happened at the council chambers last Monday, when nine ratepayers were nominated for councillors to fill five vacancies, and two were nominated to fill the office of mayor. For five years it has been difficult to secure the consent of anyone to accept the nomination, and since 1911 there has been no election. It is a good sign to see that the citizens are awakening to the responsibilities of citizenship, and there is considerable credit due the past council for bringing the town finances into such a condition that the ratepayers now esteem it a privilege and an honor to sit on the town council. This is as it should be. We hope, however that the candidates for honors at the coming election fully realize that there is still a lot of work for the members of the council, and that unless they are willing to devote considerable of their time to the business affairs of the town, it would be far better not to burden the town with their presence. We need good live men who will neither give nor ask favors, but who will ever have at heart the best interests of the town. There are few towns in Alberta so advantageously situated as Claresholm, and a wise council, by a proper administration of the affairs of the town can do much to assist its progress and growth.

PRESENTATION TO F. GARROW

A meeting of the Municipal Council was held at Granum last Monday at which all members were present. After the usual routine business Mr. Fred Garrow, the retiring Reeve, was presented by the council with a handsome club bag, beautifully fitted up with all the necessaries. Mr. Garrow has been connected with the council since 1906. He held the position of chairman to the local improvement district until 1912. Since that time he has been the Reeve of the Municipality. The council were unanimous in their regrets at his removal from the district, and Mr. Garrow gave a very fitting reply, expressing his appreciation of the harmony and good will that has always existed in the council.

Mr. Garrow has sold out all his interests in the districts, and expects shortly to remove to New York or some other eastern point.

Paying off Mortgages

A farmer with a ten year mortgage which has now been running eight years writes us that he tendered payment in full to the mortgage company, but that the company declined to accept the principal until the full ten years had expired. According to the "Interest Act" of Canada every mortgage company must accept full payment of the mortgage after it has run for five years if payment is offered together with a bonus of three months interest. If such payment is refused by the mortgage company no further interest may be collected. No mortgage company will refuse payment when they realize that the farmer is aware of this law.

As a matter of fact there is a considerable difference in the practise of various companies in regard to the payment of mortgage loans. Some companies will allow a farmer to pay up his mortgage at any time with a bonus of three months interest, unless the prepayment is offered within the first two years, when six months interest is sometimes asked. Other companies will not accept prepayment until the mortgage has matured. When loans are being paid off as a rule less frequently than new loans are being made, it would seem a reasonable practise on the part of mortgage companies to accept full payment at any time with a reasonable bonus.

MUNICIPAL ELECTIONS

TO THE VOTERS OF CLARESHOLM

Ladies and Gentlemen,—

For eight years I have had more or less to do with the town affairs. Our financial position is such that with another year to clear away pending lawsuits, finish repairs to pipeline, install gas engine and it will be in a splendid position, and that one familiar with the details of the affairs of the town can better carry them out, is my reason for appealing to you again for your support.

For the greater part of the balance of the year I shall be out of town, but during the coming year (1917) I shall be at home. You all know me. I leave the election of your new mayor in your hands with every assurance that you will act in your own interests. You have nine men to choose from for councillors and two for mayor, pick out the men who will best handle your affairs.

NORMAN G. HOLMES.

To the Ratepayers and Citizens of the Town of Claresholm :—

Having been requested by a number of ratepayers, I have allowed my name to be put forward as nominee for tho office of Mayor.

Should I have the honor of being elected it will always be my aim and object to have the interest of the town safeguarded first, and other considerations shall come second. It will be my wish to have the following, as far as practicable, enacted :

A free porch light for every house in town. That is, electricity for a 15 watt light on every porch, free of charge. The citizens own and operate the light plant and they should, as far as possible, receive benefits therefrom. In the past it has not been possible to do this, but the plant will soon be in shape to allow of this being done. I hope, if elected, to extend the street lighting system to several more corners in the town where they are needed, I am in favor of extending sidewalks where necessary and of replacing the old ones in the business district with concrete as far as the finances of the town will permit.

In view of the large amount of money spent every year in repairs to our pipe line, I would recommend that all broken wooden pipes be replaced by cast iron pipe, which has been proven to be the most suitable and long-lived wate pipe.

It is my belief that a health officer should be employed at once, as some of our allies, streets and vacant lots require looking after by such an officer.

Should I have the honor of being elected it will be my object to be always accessable to the Citizens, always in town (at the same old stand where I have been for the past twelve years) and where I will always be found.

I have been on the Council Board for the last five years and my record deserves your close attention. As Chairman of the Electric Light Committee for the past two years I think you will agree that my record has been good, and so I hope to make my record as mayor.

Canadian Colors on Wolfe's Tomb

An interesting cermony attracted many soldiers and civilians to Westminster Abbey last week.

A contingent of the 116th Battalion of the Canadian Light Infantry arrived at Waterloo from Bramshott, and, headed by the regimental band, marched over Westminster Bridge to the Abbey, under the command of Lieut.-Colonel Sam Sharpe.

The last four men carried the regimental colors and flag, which, after a short service, were deposited in the chancel of the Abbey, but will subsequently be placed on General Wolfe's tomb.

In receiving the colors, Bishop Ryle said the battalion had deposited in the Church's keeping the flag of their own and their countrie's honor; and in their keeping —— sons of the great Dominion of canada —— was deposited a noble share in the honorable task of preserving and vindicating the great Empire of Britain and of its dominions.

LADY URSULA'S HUSBAND

BY

FLORENCE WARDEN

Ward, Lock & Co., Limited

"Of course not," sneered Paul. "Pray tell her ladyship for me that I congratulate her upon her action. She is quite right to send these stones away, and to sweep away the last trace of the unfortunate accident which made her my wife. I am sorry I cannot renounce the honor of being her husband as easily as she can get rid of all remembrance of me."

Lord Eastling put the parcel in his pocket and turned to look for his hat.

"You're not fair to her just now," he said quietly. "Of course it's not to be expected. Some day you'll understand her better. A woman can't behave just normally when she's had her heart broken."

Paul slunk away without another word, and Lord Eastling dashed out of the house to catch the afternoon post to London.

Paul looked at his watch. He had twenty minutes to spare before the car would be round to take him to the station. He went into the library, wrote a note to Lady Ursula, tore it up, wrote another. He had torn that up and watched it burn when a footman opened the door and announced:

"A person to see you, sir."

Paul looked up, raging, on finding himself face to face with Will Evans.

The Welshman was flushed, and his eyes were gleaming with anger. He thrust out his thin neck towards Paul, and said, as he banged the writing table with his hand—

"Now, then, Syd Tomkinson, alias Paul Payne, alias anythink else you like, I've come to settle up. Where's the stones?"

Paul pushed back his chair, and looked up with an exceedingly "nasty" expression.

"You've mixed things up a little, haven't you?" he said coolly. "If you wanted those, you should have come about them before the course you adopted of showing that paper I signed to the lady who has done me the honor to become my wife."

"Honor! Wife! Come, no flimmery! You didn't hold to your bargain, so I had a right to show you up. Come, you know that. It was our share, or your exposure. Well, you've got it straight now, and we're quits so far. Now we come to the share out."

"Too late," said Paul easily, recovering a little of the composure which he found it impossible to maintain in the presence of his brother-in-law and Lady Ursula. "We're quits, as you say; but you can't expect to have your revenge and the stones as well. That's not cricket."

"Cricket be blowed. If you don't hand 'em over——"

He leaned over the table, purple and furious.

Paul laughed.

"Well, if I don't, what then?"

"Then I shall insist on seeing your fine lady wife, and I shall get 'em out of her!"

Paul shook his head slowly as he rose and looked at his watch.

"That would be of no use now," he said, "for the stones have been posted to the Lost Property Office, Scotland Yard, and if you wish to claim them, you must go there."

Evans staggered back, as if he had been struck between the eyes.

"It's a lie!" he gasped, choking.

"All right. Wait till the usual list comes out of property recovered. Then I think you will recognize your lost stones. I've got to catch a train. Are you coming out?"

He had entirely recovered his coolness, and he sauntered across the room to the door and politely held it open. Evans made one rush at him, with an exclamation like the roar of an enraged bull, saw the calm eyes, the ready hand, changed his mind and staggered out, down the passage and across the hall to the front door.

Paul left him at the foot of the steps, gave a word of warning to the footman not to let him in again, and drove away to the station.

He had got the best of it that time, and he made light of the helpless, apoplectic fury of the disappointed rascal he had left behind him.

At the same time he sent a message back to Oare Court by the chauffeur to warn the household against admitting the man on any pretence whatever, and a note to Lord Eastling emphasising this warning, and begging him to keep watch over Lady Ursula, and to prevent this man from forcing himself into her presence again.

Again and again, as he was borne along towards London in the express, Paul was worried by the thought that Evans, who was vindictive and unscrupulous, might try to get his revenge by some sort of personal attack upon Lady Ursula, and he was stung to the quick by the thought that he himself had no longer either the power or the right to intervene for her protection.

What if the little rascal should find means to force himself into her presence on the journey to Wintersand, where her brother was going to take her without delay?

What if he should follow her to her father's house and renew his attack at that place?

Paul dared not warn the police, for fear that this should lead to an exposure of the whole connection between himself and the two confederates, for he rightly judged that the family which he had disgraced would prefer any danger to a public scandal.

He was so anxious that he prepared three or four telegrams, to be sent off from the first stopping-place, and dashed out of his compartment as soon as the train got there to send them off.

On his way back to the carriage, however, he experienced a strong sensation of relief on recognizing the malignant face of Will Evans at the window of a third-class compartment.

He went back to his own carriage almost happy in the knowledge that the peril he had feared was averted. Evans was no longer hanging about Oare Court, and all immediate danger from his malignity was at an end.

Paul saw no more of him.

At Euston he got into a taxi and drove to the little hotel off the Strand where he usually stayed, recalled as he was going in that it was there he had stayed with his wife, and turning on his heel, went away again and entered another.

He had enough money with him to be in no pressing need of deciding what to do, and he dined at a restaurant and went to a theatre, trying to persuade himself that he rather enjoyed being a free lance once more.

The attempt was a failure. The pale face of Lady Ursula, with its pure child-like blue eyes, came between him and the people on the stage.

He did not wait until the end of the performance, but went out into the Strand, and down to Westminster Bridge, hoping that in the cold and the darkness he might be able to think more clearly.

He had a fancy that he was being followed, but he did not much care. He looked round once or twice, but in the hurrying throng of foot-passengers he could distinguish no one, and he told himself that he was losing his nerve.

He stopped for a moment on the bridge at a spot where there was nobody but himself. He looked up the river at the outline of the Houses of Parliament, and at the lights beyond and on each side of him.

Someone was crossing the empty space; someone was touching his arm.

He looked round quickly, saw just enough to know that the person who had touched him was Will Evans, and then he staggered back with a cry.

Full in his face he had received the splashing contents of a wide-mouthed shallow jar, blinding him, searing his skin, spreading like a devouring fire over his features, scorching, burning, devastating.

He heard the rush of the crowd, voices exclaiming, cries, shouts; he felt the touch of would-be helping hands. But above all he could hear the shrill "He-he-he" of the villainous little Welshman as he writhed in torture, speechless, sightless.

"The hospital! Take him to the hospital," cried someone.

Paul stretched out his hands, trying to feel his way out of the crowd, out of the fire that consumed him.

But the fire went with him, burning, raging, and he could not see. He was helpless in the hands of friend and foe.

Fire Pail Protection

Useful articles to have on the farm are buckets of water properly distributed around the barn. Fire buckets, with rounded bottoms, which, on account of their shape are inconvenient for general use, can be placed in a round hole cut in a shelf or bench; they should be covered and inspected regularly to assure their being kept full. To prevent freezing, two pounds of fused calcium chloride per pail may be used. The buckets should be painted red so that they will be more conspicuous, a constant reminder of the danger of fire.

Scientific Research

The Application of Science to Industry Necessary for Best Results

Modern industry to be successful must be based on scientific research. In Canada practically no attention has been paid to the advantages of scientific research, and many business men fail to appreciate its commercial advantages. Since the war, however, several of the largest corporations in Canada have taken up this work in their own interests. It is natural that some will be unwilling to disclose the results of their investigations, but to achieve the greatest success, such as Germany obtained before the war, there must be complete co-operation amongst all manufacturers and the government so as to eliminate overlapping of effort and work for the benefit of the common good.

In 1915, Great Britain appointed an Advisory Council for the threefold purpose of instituting scientific researches, establishing or developing institutions for the scientific researches, establishing or developing institutions for the scientific study of industrial problems, and for the institution of research studentships and fellowships. A recent report published by this committee points out that the Government had already embarked upon an organized scheme for the scientific support of British trade and industries as early as 1900, when the National Physical Laboratory was established with the assistance of a Treasury grant. This institution was established to bring scientific knowledge to bear practically upon every-day industrial and commercial life. This initial step in the right direction was followed by grants to such bodies as the Engineering Standards Committee, the Imperial Institute and, more recently, the Imperial College of Science and Technology.

It is intended that the Advisory Council shall form a permanent organization to promote industrial and scientific research throughout the kingdom, and organize the weapons of industry just as the Government has already organized the weapons of warfare. The Council will undertake a campaign of education to impress on manufacturers the benefits to be derived from scientific research.

To secure the closer co-operation of manufacturers, but not overlooking the great importance of pure science in solving the practical problems of industry, the Council will attack first purely industrial problems, the practical bearing of which can be appreciated by all.—W. J. D., in Conservation.

Organize to Annihilation

If we consider that there are ten of us allies; that each wants something from Germany after the war; that Germany still thinks she has won; and that the things which we want are still for a large part in German holding, we shall learn to disabuse our minds of the idea that the end is near. We must think, and act, and organize as though Germany meant to go on "to the last breath of horse and man," and above all else must we organize our man-power, and count nothing accomplished until our superiority of numbers in the field is absolutely annihilating.—London Times.

Unbreakable Windows

Repeated coats of raw or boiled linseed oil applied to a finely meshed wire fabric will give a good substitute for window glass. The wire may be used for many purposes, and is especially good where glass might easily be broken. The fabric may be dipped in the oil instead of applying it with a brush.

Saskatchewan Butter

A Total Output of 2,500,000 Pounds for the Season

The co-operative creameries, under the direction of W. A. Wilson, dairy commissioner of the Saskatchewan Government, have created a record for the year 1916 up to the end of October. The chief item in the record is the increase of production by half a million pounds of butter, of 20 per cent. as compared with the same period of last year.

During the season the co-operative creameries had a total output of 2,500,000 pounds of butter. Sixty-seven cars of butter have been shipped to points outside the province, while the local trade took care of about four carloads per month. There were 9,200 farmers who supplied milk and cream to the creameries.

A new venture proved to be a success. This was a trial shipment of butter to England from Alberta, Manitoba and Saskatchewan, the provinces combining to make a carload of butter, which went to Manchester, England. This shipment of butter was made direct from Regina and contained butter from Manitoba and Alberta as well as that furnished by the creameries of Saskatchewan. All the details in connection with this shipment were looked after personally by Mr. Wilson, and it was particularly pleasing to him to find out that the butter had been well received in England; in fact, a demand has been created and there are great possibilities for a future market in England.

The Dominion Dairy of Regina in 1916 will have a total output of about half a million pounds of butter.

Mr. Wilson states that in the development of markets the interests of the producer and those of the consumer had been given equal consideration. He believes the policy of extension of markets cannot be served to best advantage from the viewpoint of the farmer by taking advantage of an unusual situation, and that is the exacting of a last cent from the consumer. The dollars and cents of the producer are those of the consumer. In the policy of extension for future markets it is his wish to secure the best possible for the producer.

Plans for an amalgamation of the sixteen co-operative creameries in Saskatchewan are being perfected at the present time.

The mode of procedure which it is proposed to follow will be to form a parent company, the stock of which will be given to the members who hold stock in the sixteen co-operative creamery companies, which it is proposed to amalgamate. The liabilities and assets of the sixteen companies would be assumed by the new organization which would be under one management. In pointing out the advantages of the proposal, Mr. Wilson said that profitable markets could be better maintained, more favorable legislation secured, and a greater prestige given to the one company than could be secured by the sixteen creameries operating separately. The combined strength of the companies would also lead to more generous and larger borrowing powers for financing the industry.

"An organization already exists," said Mr. Wilson, "whose avowed object is to undermine the co-operative creameries and union would give the members greater resisting powers." He said that he did not anticipate any radical changes in the policy of the business if the amalgamation was consummated, and as each creamery would be able to send delegates to a convention at which the details would be discussed, the members would have complete control in formulating the policy of the company.

Saluting the Quarter-Deck

Ancient Naval Custom Which Is Rigidly Adhered To

One of the first things taught the naval recruit before he goes on board his ship is that he must "salute the quarter deck" when passing on to it when on board, and that he must salute at the gangway as he passes on board his ship at any time, whether from a boat or direct from the shore.

This is an ancient custom and is carried out by every officer and man whether he be the commander-in-chief in his own flagship or the ship cook's youngest boy assistant.

It survives from the time when a statue of the Blessed Virgin — or a Crucifix — was in prominence near the quarter deck of every ship when the sailors "uncovered" their heads as they passed. Civilians and soldiers when passing on board should perform the same ceremony.

The naval salute is different to that used in the army, the upper arm is not raised at right angles to the body, but to an angle of about 45 degrees from the perpendicular, while the palm of the hand instead of being turned to the front is kept turned towards the face, the forefinger nearly touching the peak of the cap in line with the eyebrow. As in the army the "off hand" is used for saluting.

The "able-bodied seaman" (or A.B.) is equivalent in rank to the private in the army, and is expected to salute all officers (naval and military) in uniform, the same remarks apply to the sister service, and all soldiers should salute naval officers when in uniform.

Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief

Prepared from LIVER TONICS ANTACIDS CARMINATIVES LAXATIVES

Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief is the companion preparation to Dr. Cassell's Tablets.

Liver Troubles, Sick Headache, and Habitual Constipation.

Liver troubles and habitual constipation can be cured—but not by cathartic or purgative medicines. The only possible way is to help your system to cure itself; and that is what Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief so surely does. It is not cathartic, it is not violent, it is quite different to the coarse purgative preparations in common use. These only irritate and weaken; Dr. Cassell's Instant Relief tones and strengthens the liver and bowels, and so restores their power to do nature's work in nature's way.

In Time of War Prepare for Peace

Sir George Foster Urges Canadians to Prepare for Future Work

That Canada and the whole Empire should prepare for peace conditions in the same manner that they prepared for war was the argument prepared by Sir George Foster, Minister of Trade and Commerce, before the Canadian Club of Montreal.

Sir George gave an address full of ideas and ideals, his concluding advice being that the whole people should unite in work for peace conditions, to meet the entirely new phases of life that would be evolved, just as they had united to produce men and materials for war. His main idea was that the whole country must organize then to produce, and produce for useful ends, just as it had organiezed now for destructive ends, and to this end he appealed to the business men of the country to unite patriotically for the general good. He argued that with the changed conditions after the war only increased production could meet the situation —mere "swapping" in trade would not do it, nor would the making of money in brokers' offices, or the criminal boosting of real estate. It was only the real production of real values from the invaluable resources of the country that could save the situation.

Sir George pointed out that when peace came there would be hundreds of thousands of Canadians returning—men who had been taken from productive to destructive work, while very many of these would be unfitted for future work.

With between thirty and forty millions of soldiers engaged in destroying the accumulations of the world's wealth, the terrific expense of keeping them up, the broken-up conditions caused by such work, Sir George argued that every condition of life would be changed when the knell of war sounded, and peace once more reigned, and it was time people realized this.

"You have given freely and generously for war," he concluded. "Prepare to give just as unselfishly in the works of peace."

Believes She Was Saved From Stroke of Paralysis

All One Side Was Cold and Powerless When She Began Using Dr. Chase's Nerve Food

A dead nerve cell can never be replaced. In this way it is different to other cells of the human body. But feeble, wasted nerve cells can be restored, and herein lies hope.

In this fact is also a warning to take note of such symptoms as sleeplessness and loss of energy and ambition, and restore the vitality to the nervous system before some form of helplessness results.

Nervous prostration, locomotor ataxia and paralysis are the natural results of neglecting to keep the nerves in healthful condition. The use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food when you suspect there is something wrong will soon restore vitality to the nervous system, and thereby prevent serious developments.

Mrs. Merritt Nichols, R. R. No. 3, Dundalk, Ont., writes: "I take pleasure in writing to tell you the great benefit I have derived from the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food. I was so nervous I could not sleep, and found it hard to get my work done at all, but, having no help at the time, had to do the best I could. Finally my left arm became powerless and cold, and this continued to get worse until my whole side was affected, head and all. I decided to try Dr. Chase's Nerve Food, and the first box helped me so much that I used several, and believe that this treatment saved me from having a paralytic stroke. It has built me up wonderfully, and I can recommend it most heartily, believing that if more Nerve Food were used there would be much less sickness."

Dr. Chase's Nerve Food cures in nature's way by nourishing the feeble, wasted nerves back to health and vigor. Fifty cents a box, all dealers, or Edmanson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto.

Modern Piety

Dick and Jimmy were visiting their grandmother. One night when they were saying their prayers Jimmy voiced his petitions for Christmas presents in a tone that could be heard a mile.

"Why do you pray for your Christmas presents so loud?" interrupted Dick. "The Lord ain't deaf."

"No," whispered Jimmy, "but grandma is."

CHILDREN OF ALL AGES

When sick the newborn babe or the growing child will find prompt relief through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. They are absolutely safe for all children and never fail to banish any of the minor ills from which little ones suffer. Concerning them Mrs. Arthur Sheasly, Adanac, Sask., writes: "I have used Baby's Own Tablets and think they are splendid for children of all ages." The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Varieties of Alfalfa

A bulletin entitled "Alfalfa Growing in Quebec," by Prof. James Murray, of Macdonald College, gives, among other things, the results of some interesting tests regarding varieties of this desirable fodder plant, which may be grown in that province. During the last five years tests have been made of over one hundred varieties from America, Europe and Asia. Of this number less than half a dozen have proven suitable for Quebec, the remainder being winter killed from fifty to one hundred per cent. The varieties which have proven hardy and which are obtainable commercially are Grimm, Ontario, Variegated and Baltic. These have proven hardy under the severest tests and have come through winters under conditions which red clover and alsike could not withstand.

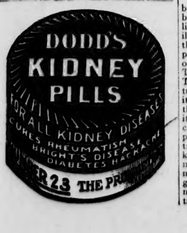
The Bread Profits

But while the flour contained in a bushel of wheat costs the Vancouver baker $2.20, and the householder a little more for retail profits, the family which buys bread pays seven and three-elevenths to eight cents per pound for a little over sixty pounds of bread made from that quantity. This means $4.35 to $4.80 per bushel. That is to say, it has cost as much to turn this flour into bread and deliver it to the consumer as it did to raise the wheat, carry it to the mill, grind it into flour and carry the flour to the coast. The bakers tell us that their profits are not large, and this may be true, but the housekeeper ought to know that she can earn as much by making her own bread as the farmer, miller and railway men earned for growing, grinding and hauling the material. — Vancouver News-Advertiser.



The Farm Home

To Make Farming a Success and Life on the Farm Possible

A time will come when enlightened farmers will realize that the farm household is the source of all energy, enterprize and intelligence that makes farming a success and life on the farm possible. It is the indefatigable farmer's wife that makes the farm home; altogether too often she makes it a real home in spite of her husband rather than as a result of his co-operation with her. He, to his shame be it said, too often has by far a greater appreciation for hogs, cattle, grain and hay and their proper housing and care than the equipment and environments that make practicable the proper rearing of his own children. Yet he will complain that the young people will not stay on the farm.—American Lumberman.

Hope for the Chronic Dyspeptic.—Through lack of consideration of the body's needs many persons allow disorders of the digestive apparatus to endure until they become chronic, filling days and nights with suffering. To these a course of Parmelee's Vegetable Pills is recommended as a sure and speedy way to regain health. These pills are specially compounded to combat dyspepsia and the many ills that follow in its train, and they are successful always.

Their Moderation

"I am sorry to observe," said the presiding elder, "that your children swear indiscriminately."

"Aw, it ain't as bad as all that, parson," replied Mr. Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge, Ark. "They don't cuss much unless they are hurt or mad or want to show off or something that-a-way." — Kansas City Star.

Minard's Liniment Cures Diphtheria.

Quality of Wheat

Why Hard Wheat Is Always Preferred by Millers

Millers prefer wheat that is hard and flinty to a wheat that is made up of kernels that are white and starchy in cross-section. Kernels of the latter type are softer and more easily crushed and are spoken of as "soft wheat." A considerable reduction in price is often made when this "soft" wheat is offered for sale.

Dr. W. P. Headden, of the Colorado Agricultural Experiment Station, has succeeded in determining the cause of this trouble and also the remedy, which every farmer can supply.

In brief, the cause of "yellowberry" is a high percentage of potash in the soil in proportion to the available nitrogen. The remedy is to keep the nitrogen contents of the soil as high as possible without increasing the potash. This may be done by the addition of nitrates, the rotation of crops in which alfalfa or some other legume is used, and by proper tillage.

Good Country Roads

Possible Misuse of the Road Drag Is Pointed Out

It is possible to have too much even of a good thing, and easy to use a good tool in a wrong fashion. This is what has happened in Iowa, where the road drag has been used so thoughtlessly that the surfaces of some roads have been dragged to a dangerous peak. The centre of the road has been built up too high for safety or comfort. A high crown and steep sides create a double danger. It is a case of zeal without judgment. The misuse of the drag cannot be held against that valuable implement of surface preservation by its systematic employment. The Iowa State Highway Commission disclaims responsibility, as it is without authority in such local administration. It suggests complaints from travellers to the dragger or the road superintendent, the county engineer or supervisor. Of course the water will run off the more readily the steeper the sides of the road, but so will vehicles. The ditch is the place for the water, but not the wagons or cars. It is easy to get the crown too high, just as it is bad to get it too low. It is all in the operator, and the operation is simple enough when horse-sense is used.—The Breeders' Gazette.

ACHING TEETH RELIEVED AT HOME

Sloan's Liniment Robs Toothache Of Its Terrors. Pain Vanishes In a Few Minutes

Two Kinds of Peace

Peace Talk in Germany and in Great Britain

During the past month or two there has been a great deal of talk about peace in high quarters in England as well as in Germany. But between the things that have been said in England and the things that have been said in Germany there is a sharp contrast in two essential respects. In the first place, what the German statesmen's thoughts are centred upon is the possibility of bringing the war to an end by coming to terms with their enemies in one way or another without fighting the war out to the bitter end; whereas the men at the head of affairs in England — Asquith, Lloyd George, Grey —are absolutely unbending in their resolution to entertain no proposals of peace except such as would be predicated on the decisive defeat of Germany. And secondly, the German preoccupation is wholly with the question of the ending of this war, and has no concern with the prevention of future wars except in so far as this may be implied in the demanding of terms of peace which shall leave Germany's mighty state, fully capable of defending itself against aggression, whereas in utterance after utterance of the leading English statesmen the idea is put forward of establishing a new regime, under which, through some form of international co-operation, a repetition of the stupendous calamity that has befallen the world will be made impossible.—N. Y. Evening Post.

Well rubbed in, it will still the pain and produce a sensation of ease and rest. There is nothing like it as a liniment, for its curative properties are great. A trial of it will establish faith in it.

Marconi Has New Findings in Wireless

More Practical and Useful Method of Communication

Marconi, in an address before a gathering at Rome, which included the Duke of Genoa and the elite of scientific, literary and aristocratic circles, roused the enthusiasm of his hearers when he said that wireless telegraphy had rendered magnificent services to Italy and her allies in the war.

He regretted that it was impossible, for obvious reasons, to explain as fully as he would have liked to do, the progress made during the last two years in radio telegraphy, but he described problems that are still unsolved — such as the origin, nature and means of dominating those natural disturbing waves known as "intruders" — which he has been studying and experimenting with.

He expressed the conviction that he would soon be able to announce means of communication more practical and economically useful to mankind.

The CAMERON HIGHLANDERS of Canada, who have already sent nearly 4,000 men to the war, are now raising one more Battalion, the 174th, under Lieut.-Colonel H. F. Osler, who has returned from the front to take Command, and they need 850 more men to complete their establishment. They have the finest quarters in Canada, a splendid organization, and an honored association with the "Queen's Own" Cameron Highlanders, one of the finest regiments in the British Army, whose Tartan and badges they are privileged to wear. What other unit can offer such attractions? Come and be one of the 30,000 men who will have worn the Cameron badges and colors during the Great War.

Transportation will be forwarded to recruits from outside points immediately on receipt of medical certificate from a local Doctor.

Our Debt To The Wright Brothers

"With unexampled generosity Mr. Orville Wright, who, with his brother Wilbur, now dead, invented the modern aeroplane, and his representatives in this country have presented their valuable flying patents to the British nation.

"Earlier in the war the Government paid a trifling £15.000 to cover royalties under the Wright patents for our war aeroplanes. Next March the original British patent lapses. Mr. Wright will not renew it, and every British maker will be free of royalty.

"The Wright Brothers, of Dayton, Ohio, always "looked on England, the home of their ancestry, as the most favored nation.' They gave her the first offer of their great secret, and even when Lord Haldane showed them the door they did not forget their affection.

It rests with the British Government now to manifest in worthy fashion the gratitude of the country.

Municipal Skating Rink

Open air possesses fascination for the Canadian youth unsurpassed by any other attraction. One result of this yearning has been the orgination of the playground movement in many of our cities and towns. Wherever established, playgrounds have met with immediate success. Regulated play inculcates lessons of discipline intermixed with pleasure, and creates a lasting impression upon the young.

In the majority of cases the playgrounds were originally established by public-spirited citizens who had the welfare of the children at heart. The success of the movement has led to its adoption by municipalites, who are now making appropriations for maintenance.

Our winter, however, militates against a long season for the playground, and in cold weather, a substitute attraction, viz., the skating rink should be provided.

Open air rinks can be provided at very small cost. School grounds, vacant lots or other open spaces may be used. The area enclosed with boards eight inches wide, set vertically, and supported by wooden pegs driven into the ground on the outside

The municipal skating rink is wholly a commendable investment of public funds; it supplies pleasure and recreation to the masses. If, however, it serves no other purpose than taking the children off the street, it well repays the expenditure as a measure of public safety.

AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE NOTES

The first entertainment given by the Literary Society was held on Saturday evening, December 2nd, with the president, Mr. Hansen, in the chair. A piano selection was given by Mrs. Stephen. The debate, which was the principal part of the program, followed.

The debate, 'Resolved, that Mixed Farming is Better Than Grain Farming in Southern Alberta," was upheld on the affirmative side by Messrs. Schumaker and Sears, and on the negative by Messrs. Pollock and Graham. The judges were Mrs. Sundal and Messrs. Stephen, Faulkner and Scott. The Judges decided in favor of the affirmative by a decision of three to one. While the judges were making their decision the chairman gave a speech on the objects and purposes of the Literary Society.

After the debate a short dance was held, which everybody enjoyed.

School Notes

Sixteen boys left Claresholm last Friday evening to attend the Boys' Work Conference in Calgary on the 1st, 2nd and 3rd inst. The object of the conference was to get the boys in every town or church to organize clubs and work for the Standard Efficiency Tests and to make leaders among boys.

The youngsters from Claresholm were unusually meek on the train going up. Probably it was on account of the absence of the Macleod boys, who had gone up on the morning train.

Upon arriving in Calgary they were met by Mr McKenzie and a committee who took them over to Knox church, where they received their billets and were taken to the homes of some of the boys of Calgary.

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock all the delegates from the various towns met at Knox Church, about 400 in all. The session opened with devotional exercises. Mayor Costello then gave an address of welcome. At 9.50 an adjournment was made to the Regent to see Charlie Chaplin in his "Revue of 1916," which was most heartily enjoyed by all,

In the afternoon at 1.45 the delegates gathered in front of the Normal School to be photographed. They then returned to the church for the afternoon session.

At 6:30 p.m. banquets were held in Knox and the First Baptist churches. Each town represented had a table of its own. To merely say that the banquet was good would be putting it rather mild. Anyway we can say that the Calgary girls know their business as cooks. After the big feed, songs were sung and the different school yells were given. Altogether a most enjoyable time was had. After the banquet all returned to Knox church for the evening session.

After some singing, Mr. Statton gave a demonstration of "The Standard Efficiency Tests."

On Sunday morning at 11 o'clock, the delegates attended church with their hosts, and at 4 p.m. there was a boys mass meeting at Knox church, which was conducted by Mr. Statton. At 8.45 a union farewell service was held in the church, to which the public was invited. High River, Claresholm and Macleod came home on Sunday night's train.

The commencement exercises will be held in the Assembly hall of the school on Friday, Dec. 8th, when diplomas for Grades VIII., IX., X. and XI. will be issued, besides a short program. All are invited. An admission fee will be charged to enable the basket and football teams to defray the expensess of their trip to Macleod, and for the debaters.

McLAUGHLIN

The Men who buy McLAUGHLIN SIXES

A good idea of the quality, efficiency and popularity of McLaughlin Sixes can be formed from a knowledge of the type of men who buy McLaughlin Sixes.

As a class they investigate before they invest.

They are strong men of good judgment and keen discrimination, who approach the task of purchasing a car with the same clear analytic reasoning that they use in any business venture. Unswayed by glowing accounts and glitttering generalities clothed in high sounding phrases, in newspaper print or salesmen's talk, these men assimilate the facts and recognize in the McLaughlin Six the combined qualities of the car they wish to own.

Abundant power is a necessity and these men realize that the McLaughlin valve-in-head engine developes more power with less gasoline consumption than any other type of motor of the same bore and stroke. Moreover the power of the Six is flexible power, easily controlled, making gear shifting almost unnecessary. The long wheelbase and deep wide seats, luxuriously upholstered in genuine leather, provide supreme comfort. The spring suspension smooths out the rough roads.

With twelve branches and hundreds of service stations all over Canada the McLaughlin Company gives the kind of service that appeals to the men who buy McLaughlin Sixes.

Jas. Brand is moving the pool room to a lot behind his store.

G. E. A. Malchow purchased a Ford car last week.

J. B. Ostrum and family motored to Calgary last Saturday.

H. Phillips is reported to have sold his farm.

Miss Wilson, of Nanton, spent the week end with Miss Hopkins.

Alphonse Doicet and Geo. Armstrong opened up a new dray business this week.

A. D. Irvine was elected by acclamation as a member of the School Board.

John Armstrong moved on to the farm of Phil Lavergue, on Wednesday.

Mr. Vandervoort, of Calgary, arrived in town on Wednesday to open Dudley Bros'. elevator.

G. E. A. Malchow has accepted the agency for the distribution of the Alladin lamp for this district.

Mr. Stretch is visiting his son in town for a few days. He has recently been in the Calgary hospital undergoing treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. McQuaig and Mrs. Lebow left in a car for Calgary on Monday afternoon. They are expected home at the end of the week.

Mrs. F. A. Feeney, Jr., and her two sons, Francis and Wilbur, left on Thursday for Boston to spend the winter with relatives.

R. B. Henkler and family left on the 2nd inst. for their old home in the United States, to spend Christmas with Mrs. Henkler's father.

Pat Walsh returned from Lethbridge last Saturday, and after taking in a dance or two left for the south. He is now working in the Barons district.

J. F. Rea shipped a car of wheat to the Bawlff Grain Co., for I. Gramer, which netted $3,700. This, we believe, is a record price for a single car.

Remember the meeting of the Agricultural Society next Saturday. There will be an Institute meeting in connection with it, when Prof. W. J. Steven will give an address. Mark Arnstad will also speak on raising alfalfa.

The Lavergne sale was a great success. Prices were high and most of the stuff sold for cash. The sale realized nearly $5,000. T. B. Clancy proved himself a first-class auctioneer and gave every satisfaction. Mr. Lavergne leaves shortly on a visit to Ontario and Quebec.

The town of Stettler is reported as being so dead that no one would consent to accept the position either of mayor or councillor. Stavely places itself amongst the list of live towns by nominating men enough for the Council to make an election necessary. The following were nominated: F. Keiver, E. McChesney, T. Wilson and Harry Walker. The election will take place on Monday next, when three of the number will be elected. We hope the ratepayers will poll their votes. Stavely is taking on a new lease of life and great developments will no doubt soon take place.

Last week Claresholm was visited by a young man who was selling a plant which he called the Rose of Sharon, a highly scented plant which he claimed possessed eternal life, and would thrive in the coldest or the hottest climate. For a few hours he did a flourishing business, and then skipped the town to fleece some other unsuspecting community. Meanwhile some of our citizens have been experimenting, and have come to the conclusion that the whole thing is a fake.

The following ratepayers were nominated last Monday for the town council:—G. M. Godley, O. L. Reinecke, J. W. Hallett, J. M. Soby, W. Knight, D. B. Vanhorn, J. R. Watt, Frank Murray, G. Barber.

For Mayor:—Norman Holmes, J. B. Boese.

At the Rex

"The Campbells are Coming," and will be at the Rex on the 18th and 19th of December.

Every British subject knows of the "Black Hole of Calcutta," and it is on that episode of British history that this war play was based. It is a real patriotic picture, and in producing it the manufacturers used 1,200 Vancouver kilties, which makes it a hundred per cent. more interesting to Canadian audiences. Sir Sam Hughes viewed "The Campbells are Coming" with his staff at Ottawa and enthusiastically commended it to be one of the best he had seen. Keep the date in mind and don't miss it.

OUR BOYS WILL LIVE

A letter was recently published in the London Daily Mail from a young soldier who fell in battle on September 15th. It was found wrapped up with his will, and was to be forwarded only in case of his death. It is a letter which haunts one, for there is a pathos and love, a faith and victory, that thrills the reader. In his letter he pities those who are left to mourn. He is glad life has given him a happy time and says "That death will save me from experiencing unhappiness." He tells how most of us die, having done very little that counts. But he says, "We shall live for ever in the results of our efforts. Our spirits and our memory will endure in the proud position Britain shall hold in the future. The measure of life is not its span, but the use made of it. I did not make much use of my life before the war, but I think I have done so now." Thus it is our brave boys at the front see the truth, and are ready to lay down their lives in a sacrifice so stupendous that they will live for ever in its splendour. By their death they are creating a new civilization and in it they discover the greatest and truest immortality.

Full Resources Needed

Everything depends upon the power of the allies to keep up the pressure unrelaxed, and their ability to do this demands more men, and still more men. We must not suffer ourselves to be denuded by the brilliant successes we have begun to win, or by any notion that the German armies are generally and permanently demoralized. The only way to save ourselves from an indefinite prolongation of the war, and from all the sacrifices in blood and treasure which such a calamity would involve, is to bring our full resources to bear upon the enemy at the earliest possible moment and to exert them relentlessly until his strength and spirit are broken.—London Times.

It Has Been Worse

Prices of Flour and Other Necessities Have Been Higher

With the advance of high-grade flour to $10 per barrel, we are told that flour has risen to "the highest price since the Civil War." It has really reached a higher price than it brought during the Civil War, for the high rate which then prevailed was expressed in terms of paper money, and at one time during the war a dollar in gold was worth $2.85 in paper. In terms of gold, the highest price attained by flour during the Civil War was $4.90 a barrel. We are, therefore, now paying in gold twice the price for flour that was paid in the Civil War. The present price neither of flour, wheat nor cotton is a record price. In 1795 flour sold at $12 per barrel, and in 1796 at $16. A hundred years ago, in 1817, it was $14.75 a barrel. Wheat is now at $1.83 per bushel, December delivery, but in 1854 wheat brought $2.21 per bushel, in 1855 $2.43, io 1866 $2.09, in 1869 $2.05, gold. In the meantime, wages are very much higher than they were in either one of the years named. There have been many periods in which the prices of the necessaries of life, relatively to wages, were much greater than they are now.—Boston Transcript.

"I'm running this!" asserted Mr. Henpeck, starting the water for his morning bath.

A TALK ON RHEUMATISM

Telling How to Actually Cure This Common and Painful Malady

This article is for the man or woman who suffers from rheumatism who wants to be cured, not merely relieved—but actually cured. The most the rheumatic sufferer can hope for in rubbing something on the tender, aching joint is a little relief. No lotion or liniment ever did or can make a cure. The rheumatic poison is rooted in the blood. Therefore rheumatism can only be cured when this poisonous acid is driven out of the blood. Any doctor will tell you this is true. If you want something that will go right to the root of the trouble in the blood take Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. They make new, rich blood which drives out the poisonous acid and cures rheumatism to stay cured. The truth of these statements has been proved in thousands of cases throughout Canada, and the following cure is a striking instance. Mr. Henry Smith, St. Jerome, Que., says: "For upwards of a year I was a victim of rheumatism in a most painful form. The trouble was located in my legs and for a long time I was so bad that I could not walk. The suffering which I endured can only be imagined by those who have been similarly afflicted. Doctors' treatment did not help me and then I began trying other remedies, but with no better results. Finally I was advised to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and although I had begun to lose faith in medicine I finally decided to give the pills a trial. I am very grateful now that I did so, for after taking eight boxes of the pills the trouble completely disappeared. I was free from pain and could walk as well as ever I did in my life. I have since taken the pills occasionally as a precautionary measure, and I cannot speak too highly in their favor."

Dr. Williams' Pink Pills cure all the troubles due to weak, watery blood or broken down nerves. You can get these pills through any dealer in medicine, or by mail postpaid, at 50 cents a box or six boxes for $2.50 from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Canadian's Smart Rejoinder

Travelling recently in the United States, a Canadian banker was observed to occupy a seat in a compartment in which a German was loudly boasting of what Germany had achieved during the war. The Canadian was furious, but kept his temper, and asked the German if he were a soldier.

"Yes," said Fritz. "Then why don't you go back and fight," asked the banker. "I can't get there," was the reply. "Well," said the Canadian, "I'm going to England next week, and there's nothing to stop me. Germany doesn't seem to have gained much if it is impossible for a German to cross the seas and fight for his Fatherland."

Minard's Liniment Cures Distemper

The Knowing One: 'Ere's a lark, 'Erb. I arst that ole bloke wot these 'ere fish was, an' 'e sez "S'rimps." 'E finks cos I comes from London I don't know as s'rimps is pink! — Passing Show.

Warts will render the prettiest hands unsightly. Clear the excrescences away by using Holloway's Corn Cure, which acts thoroughly and painlessly.

Windsor Street Station a Model

It has been said by officials of other roads that the Windsor street station is the best kept of any they have seen, and this is due to the efforts of Mr. Bell, who is the genial superintendent of the building. Certainly the station proper, the yards, the platform, the tracks, the concourse, the waiting rooms—all bear testimony to the scrupulous care with which they are treated. There is not a scrap of paper to be seen anywhere. The motor trucks have their entrances and exits; but they never trouble the passengers.

The concourse has latterly been entirely re-painted with a color which gives the light all the necessary encouragement. The whole administration of the station and offices is like clockwork for precision and order and neatness. The higher officials are much interested in seeing that all is in apple pie order in a station which speaks the work of advance and provides for the future.

BE CAREFUL

in your choice of an ointment. An inferior ointment is worse than none at all, because it irritates and inflames, and sometimes even poisons the place it is intended to soothe and heal. In using Zam-Buk you take no risk, as its soothing, healing properties have been proved by thousands of users, and its purity is vouched for by the famous English Chemist, Mr. W. Lascelles Scott, who says:

"I have made an exhaustive analytical examination of Zam-Buk, and find it exclusively of vegetable origin, with none of the impure and irritating mineral drugs and animal fats found in ordinary ointments. The germ-destroying powers of Zam-Buk exceed those of carbolic acid, yet it does not inflame even the most sensitive skin. I have no hesitation in certifying the purity of Zam-Buk, and its value for skin diseases and injuries."

French Appreciation

Prominent Frenchmen Refer to the British Arms in Eulogistic Terms

Our French friends speak of our share in the joint victory with a warm and generous enthusiasm which, we can assure them, we appreciate and return. M. Poincare, in a message to King George, speaks of "the brilliant successes won by the British Army." The Echo de Paris offers our glorious army the "grateful and heartful homage" of France. General Zurlinden declares that France will "never forget" our effort; M. Barthou describes our soldiers as "true brothers in arms," and M. Pichon says that "Britain with her man-power and material is winning the war," and that "the day when we entered the war was the day of Germany's defeat."—London Times.

His Job

"What do you do?" asked one man of another in the smoking car.

"I work for this railroad," replied the other.

"What is your job—do you sell papers?"

"No, not exactly," replied the second. "You know the man who goes alongside of the train and taps the wheels with a hammer to see that everything's all right? Well, I help him listen."

How Sheep Raising Pays

Demonstration of Profit to Be Made in Sheep Ranching

"The Department of Natural Resources of the Canadian Pacific Railway has carried out many experiments, but it is doubtful if any of them have been more successful than that in connection with sheep raising. While demonstrating the fact that this industry is well suited for the province, the result of an auction just completed has furnished sufficient evidence that there are other methods than growing wheat to secure the western rancher excellent returns.

"In all, 3,426 sheep were sold, the total proceeds amounting to practically $30,000. The highest prices secured were for a bunch of grade Suffolk yearling ewes, which brought $14.25 each. The price of the ewes throughout ranged from $9 to that secured for the Suffolks, while the males ranged from $30 to $50.

"The sheep were raised east of Lethbridge, and were of the Merino strain. They were disposed of in large lots, one of the buyers taking as many as 1,000 head."—Calgary Herald.

Is Your Home Safe?

Many of Canada's Fires Are in Dwelling Houses

The fire record for 1915 shows that of 1,625 fires reported, 676 were in the homes of our people. The great majority of these dwelling-house fires occur at night, when the lives of the occupants are endangered.

From the 676 homes the greater portion of the families were turned out at night in wintry weather. In these fires, 141 lives were lost.

The chief causes of these home fires are: Carelessness in allowing defective chimneys to exist; carelessness in the use of matches; carelessness in many other ways.

Householders should see that the heating equipment is fire-safe, that there are no cracks in the chimney to allow sparks to enter the attic; that furnace pipes are thoroughly clean and at a safe distance from woodwork; that stoves, ranges and stovepipes are in safe condition and all surrounding woodwork protected, and that lamps and lanterns are in good condition.

Carelessness with matches caused 69 fires last year; overheated stoves and furnaces, 51; defective and overheated chimneys, pipes, etc., 62; electrical defects, 55. These causes are all easily avoided and should be guarded against in future.

Homes should be made reasonably firesafe by taking the simplest necessary precautions. Safety First is as essential in the home as at work.

Writing a Love Letter

While a certain Richmond family were in Europe the dusky housemaid acted as caretaker, and more than once she received in the dining-room an admirer in the person of one Henry Morgan, cab-driver, according to Lippincott's. One evening, when the maid and the Jehu were making merry, there came from the kitchen a painful scratching sound.

"What's that noise in de kitchen?" demanded the maid's admirer. "Must be a dawg tryin' to git in."

"Don't yo' worry," answered the maid, "dat ain't no dawg a-scratchin' at de do'. Dat's de cook a-writin' a love letter."—Exchange.

The Fat of the Hun

It would not be surprising to learn that the falling-off in the morale of the German troops is largely due to dietary causes. Fat plays an important part not only in the nutrition of the human body, but in renewing the energy which is being constantly dissipated in the form of radiant heat. Metabolized fat is the storage battery of human energy, and with the average German, under normal conditions, the battery is exceedingly well charged. If one regiment were to be fed with dry bread and another with toast buttered cold, there would be a marked superiority in the energy of the toast and butter eaters. The bread and butter miss of whom we have heard so much has a true and wholesome natural instinct. — Montreal Herald.

A Hero From the Far North

How a Canadian Officer Gave His Life in Capturing a German Machine Gun

I heard today, too, from certain Canadians who have been in recent fighting, the tale of one of their officers, who was off in the far Northwest when the war broke out, and he came by canoe and on foot 500 miles to join the Expeditionary Force. He went through all the fighting that his division has seen, and rose gradually through the successive non-commissioned ranks till he got his commission. A German machine-gun in a certain post was holding up his men, and he crawled up until quite close to it, and then went for it single-handed. When his men came on, they found his body lying across the gun and the gun's crew dead around him.—London Times War Correspondence.

Oldest Stone Image

Ancient Relic Discovered Recently in Japan

An ancient and ownerless edifice standing in a village called Shikishima, in Shiki district, Nara prefecture, has been found to contain a number of rare artistic treasures in the shape of antique Buddhist images, says the Herald of Asia. The discovery of these rarities, one of which is believed to be the oldest of the kind in Japan, is due to Mr. Sekino, doctor of engineering; Mr. Matano, chief of the Imperial Museum at Tokio, and Mr. Niino, of the Nara Art Gallery. They are of the opinion that the tottering edifice is none other than a temple called the Sekiiji, which was built in the Nara period (710-794 A.D.). The stone image, the centre figure, as it were, of the edifice, represents the Yakushi Buddha and is four feet in height, more than three feet in breadth and three-fifths to seven-tenths of a foot in thickness. It was probably made some 2,100 years ago, in the era of Hakuho, and is the oldest stone image in Japan, says a report from a Nichi-Nichi correspondent. The head man of the district is now trying to have it included among the national treasures. There are also in the edifice a wooden image of the Buddha and several other figures of antique appearance.

Improvement of Game Laws

Prohibition of the Sale of Game By Several Provinces

That the trend of game protective legislation throughout Canada is distinctly toward restricting, and ultimately prohibiting the operations of market hunters, is clearly manifested by recent amendments to the game laws of Ontario, Manitoba and Saskatchewan. In Ontario the sale of water-fowl and of quail, partridge, woodcock and snipe is prohibited until the autumn of 1917. Manitoba and Saskatchewan have gone much farther and the effect of their present laws is to prohibit the open sale of practically all game in any season of the year.

The market hunter is the recognized guerrilla of destruction with regard to wild life, and the traffic in dead game is responsible for at least three-quarters of the slaughter that has reduced the game birds of North America to a mere remnant of their former abundance. Nearly all the provinces of Canada have placed restrictions upon the market gunner, by prohibiting the sale of game entirely, or during certain seasons. Unfortunately, in most instances, such laws have been enacted only as an extreme resort to protect depleted species from virtual extinction. In view of the disastrous and inevitable results of allowing the market hunter to carry on his destructive occupation, the logical procedure is to anticipate and prevent the result by prohibiting market gunning before it has succeeded in reducing our splendid resources of wild life to the verge of extinction.

Anxious Faces in Germany

By a Neutral Pro-German Diplomatist, Quoted by the Manchester Guardian

The sad and anxious faces one meets in Berlin makes one think that happiness has fled the world. To economic anxieties are now added those inspired by the military situation. . . . They are still putting a good face on things, and some even believe that Verdun will be taken soon, but, all the same, my impression is that the morale of the German soldier has become weakened, and that he has no longer his old confidence in the utility of the efforts demanded of him. Germany's strength can grow no greater. It has reached its apogee.

"HAD ALMOST GIVEN UP."

Sarnia, Ont.—"About 27 years ago I was taken very bad, my blood, too, was in bad shape. I got so I had to go to bed and I was there for over three months. I could not eat and suffered untold agony. I had three of the best doctors I could get but it just seemed nothing was going to help me. I had almost given up. I thought I would never be any better and was willing to give up and die rather than suffer as I was. A neighbor of mine told me of Dr. Pierce's wonderful remedies and I decided to use them. My husband bought me six bottles of 'Favorite Prescription.' I had not taken it long until I felt better. In less than six weeks I was out of bed, and in less than six months I was cured and have been well ever since. Do all my own work. I have raised three daughters, two are married and have children. They have used it and they are healthy, so are their children. I am sure it was all on account of my having them use the medicine.

"I keep all of Dr. Pierce's medicines in the house. Have 'Favorite Prescription,' 'Golden Medical Discovery' and 'Smart-Weed'—anything prepared by Dr. Pierce is good. I also have a copy of the People's Common Sense Medical Adviser, which I have had 26 years; it has been very valuable to me."—Mrs. J. Way, 232 Ontario St., Sarnia, Ont.

Mr. Lloyd George's Verdun Trees

The story about Mr. Lloyd George picking up chestnuts when he was at Verdun and putting them in his pocket, has had a pretty sequel. The French general who was with our Minister for War thought Mr. Lloyd George was going to eat them, but his real intention was, it seems, to plant them when he got him, so that his descendants might walk under Verdun chestnut trees, and never forget the immortal French defence. One can imagine this story going down through the ages amongst the French peasants, and it may be that in generations to come Mr. Lloyd George's Verdun avenue may become a place of pilgrimage for French visitors to this country. — Nottingham Guardian.

I OWE MY HEALTH

To Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Washington Park, Ill.—"I am the mother of four children and have suffered with female trouble, backache, nervous spells and the blues. REASONS FOR RENEWED OPTIMISM IN FUTURE OF WESTERN CANADA

GOOD RETURNS RECEIVED FOR FARM PRODUCTS

Financial Value of Crops in Western Canada Greater This Year Than Ever Before, and Even at Lower Yield, Farming Was More Profitable

Last year Canada produced the largest crop in its history. Of wheat alone, it produced 376,300,000 bushels, of which the three western provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta produced 343,000,000 bushels, or nine-tenths. This year, according to the latest official estimates made by the Dominion Government, Canada will produce less than 175,000,000 bushels, the western provinces accounting for less than 150,000,000 bushels. Unofficial estimates place the yield somewhat higher.

Before any too hasty conclusions are reached regarding this apparently disappointing comparison, certain facts must be borne in mind. For one thing, last year's crops were really phenomenal. They more than doubled the 1914 crops, and were considerably more than fifty per cent. greater than in 1913, the previous "bumper year." The year 1915 was an ideal season in all climatic respects. Patriotic sentiment, also, that placed the production of food supplies for Great Britain and her Allies in the light of the most essential duty, was at a very high pitch.

So large, indeed, was the acreage under cultivation in 1915 that the resulting crop proved too large to be all threshed the same fall. It overloaded railroads, and made marketing slow. A less amount of fall plowing was done than would have been done in a less heavy year, because the average farmer was too busy with his threshing. All these conditions necessarily reacted upon the acreage seeded in the spring of 1916. Add to this that labor this year, owing to the great number of Canadians who have enlisted, is scarce and high-priced, and one factor in the decreased yield—smaller acreage under crop—is evident.

Another factor is that this year Western Canada has experienced, in common with the entire North American continent, conditions that have been less favorable to the production of big crops. The conditions have resulted in smaller yield per acre, and reduced grade of grain in certain localities.

The average yield of wheat in the three western provinces is estimated by the government at about 16 bushels per acre, oats 43 bushels, and barley 27 bushels. These yields are much less than for 1915, especially in the case of wheat, but it must be remembered of course, that these estimates are not final. Until actual returns are received from the threshers, all estimates are only calculations based on fallible principles. Such uncollated threshers' figures as have come to our notice, and which have been printed without comment in this publication, reveal that in a large number of cases the actual returns are far in excess of the estimates.

A further reason for a renewed optimism in the future of Western Canada is to be found in the fact that the trying conditions that have prevailed this year have, as has already been pointed out, been common to the North American continent. In the United States the first estimate of the wheat yield has, when contrasted with the latest figures issued, been reduced by some twenty per cent. The year 1915 was a "bumper year" in the United States as well as in Canada. Four hundred million bushels less of wheat are being produced in the United States this year from nine million less acres. The first estimate made this year of the probable wheat yield was 759,000,000 bushels; the latest estimate is 607,000,000 bushels. Oats have been reduced by 85,000,000 bushels, barley by 21,000,000 bushels. The latest estimate for wheat shows, in round figures, only 12 bushels per acre, against Western Canada's 16, and against last year's U. S. 17; oats 30 bushels, against Western Canada's 43, and last year's U. S. 38; and barley 24 bushels, against Western Canada's 27 and last year's U. S. 32.

The financial value of their crops to Western Canadian farmers has been greater this year than ever before. Owing to the high prices of grain that are prevailing, returns have been received that are extremely profitable. With wheat standing at the present time at over $1.90 per bushel at the Great Lakes, a wheat crop at present figures would pay the farmer, even supposing he had only the average of 16 bushels per acre, over $30 per acre. A large number are receiving $50 per acre, some have received $75, and a few even more than that.

This price, of course, is not all profit; it represents the gross return, and the cost of operation must be deducted. But it does not, even at the highest figures, cost more than 65c to raise a bushel of wheat in Western Canada, so that the profit can be figured accordingly. It must be emphasized that the acre which produces a $30 crop costs in the first case probably less than that. In the United States the same class of land would cost in many districts from $100 to $200 per acre, and even then a return of $30 would be considered extremely satisfactory. In Western Canada the best class of agricultural land, capable of producing crops that in size compare with any country in the world except, perhaps, some European countries, can be obtained at, on the average, from $20 to $30 per acre, with irrigated lands somewhat higher. It is no exaggeration whatever to say that a number of Western Canadian farmers have paid for their land entirely from the proceeds of this year's crop, and this includes men who this year began for the first time.—Western Canada Week By Week.

Then How Did She Feel?

It is the invariable custom of a certain clergyman to kiss the bride after the ceremony. A young woman who was to be married did not relish the prospect and instructed her future husband to tell the clergyman that he must not kiss her.

"Well, Harry," said the young woman when he returned, "did you tell the minister that he must not kiss me?"

"Yes."

"What did he say?"

"He said that in that case he would charge but half the usual fee."

Doctor Tells How to Strengthen Eyesight 50 per cent. In One Week's Time in Many Instances

A Free Prescription You Can Have Filled and Use at Home

LONDON.—Do you wear glasses? Are you a victim of eye strain or other eye weaknesses? If so, you will be glad to know that according to Dr. Lewis there is real hope for you. Many whose eyes were failing say they have had their eyes restored through the principle of this wonderful free prescription. One man says, after trying it: "I was almost blind; could not see to read at all. Now I can read everything without any glasses and my eyes do not water any more. At night they would pain dreadfully; now they feel fine all the time. It was like a miracle to me." A lady who used it says: "The atmosphere seemed hazy with or without glasses, but after using this prescription for fifteen days everything seems clear. I can even read fine print without glasses." It is believed that thousands who wear glasses can now discard them in a reasonable time and multitudes more will be able to strengthen their eyes so as to be spared the trouble and expense of ever getting glasses. Eye troubles of many descriptions may be wonderfully benefited by following the simple rules. Here is the prescription: Go to any active drug store and get a bottle of Bon-Opto tablets. Drop one Bon-Opto tablet in a fourth of a glass of water and allow to dissolve. With this liquid bathe the eyes two to four times daily. You should notice your eyes clear up perceptibly right from the start and inflammation will quickly disappear. If your eyes are bothering you, even a little, take steps to save them now before it is too late. Many hopelessly blind might have been saved if they had cared for their eyes in time.

Note: Another prominent Physician to whom the above article was submitted, said: "Bon-Opto is a very remarkable remedy. Its constituent ingredients are well known to eminent eye specialists and widely prescribed by them. The manufacturers guarantee it to strengthen eyesight 50 per cent. in one week's time in many instances or refund the money. It can be obtained from any good druggist and is one of the very few preparations I feel should be kept on hand for regular use in almost every family." The Valmas Drug Co., Store 6, Toronto, will fill your orders if your druggist cannot.

League of Peace is Endorsed

Viscount Bryce Says U.S. Can No Longer Remain Isolated

Viscount Bryce, formerly British Ambassador to the United States, speaking at a meeting of the Mayflower Club in London recently, held in the reception room of the House of Commons, discussing the prevention of future wars, endorsed the plan of "a combination of peace-loving nations for the purpose of establishing a permanent peace."

"The United States has hitherto stood apart in isolation, but isolation is no longer possible," said Viscount Bryce. "Every country is now affected, and its safety threatened by the spirit of anti-democratic aggression. The United States has avoided entangling alliances. But a league of peace would be no entangling alliance. It would be a smoothing down and straightening out of difficulties that threaten to embroil the world."

Viscount Bryce declared that questions which have arisen between the United States and Great Britain with regard to the British exercise of belligerent naval rights "are happily such as can be disposed of by pacific negotiation, and need not affect the permanent friendship of peoples attached to one another by so many ties."

Huge Dimensions Of Captured Zeppelin

Compared in Size to a Modern Ocean Liner

A correspondent who paid a visit to the super-Zeppelin brought to earth in England on Sept. 23 writes: "We had, of course, all seen photographs of the fallen Zeppelin, but no camera picture can ever convey an adequate idea of the monster that was lying helpless, but to all intents and purposes intact, in these Essex fields. One thing struck the whole of our party, namely, surprise at the huge dimensions of the airship, and a sense of wonder that it could possibly have come down in the condition in which it is to be found today. Although bent and twisted, the trellis aluminum frame shows quite clearly the general lines of the ship. After penetrating into the interior of the frame it seemed like standing in the centre of a huge aluminum liner and looking up from the keel plate to the deck. What impressed everyone next to the dimensions of the airship was the extraordinary lightness of the structure, and we were surprised to find that a length of the trellis framework of ten or twelve feet could be raised and held quite easily with the little finger. The Zeppelin is proved to be "L33," one of the largest in the German service, built lately. The gondolas number four, containing six Mercedes engines, each of 240 horse-power, working 1,600 revolutions to the minute. One gondola contains three engines, the remaining three each carrying one engine. There are five propellers. It has been estimated that she carried some two thousand gallons of petrol in her various tanks, and that her colossal envelope was filled with two million feet of gas. While being escorted around the airship, in the centre of which experts were still working and measuring, we were shown the "cat walk," a narrow, scorched platform giving access to various parts of the ship, and the apparatus for dropping bombs. She is fitted with sixty bomb droppers. Right forward is to be seen the captain's cabin, with three control wheels, while in close proximity is the wireless room, enclosed in a casing of cotton wool to ensure as much silence as possible.

Lying on one side of the Zeppelin itself was a small cane or basket coracle, the use of which is not quite clear. It may have been intended for use in case of descent on the water or for lowering men for the purpose of observation. An officer informed me that everything of any practical value is intact, and that we have all the information requisite to construct a replica if necessary. The length of the ship is 680 feet, and her total weight, with her crew of twenty-two officers and men, about fifty tons. She is supposed to have occupied a year in building, and to have cost anything between a quarter and half a million sterling. She carries seven or eight guns, including five ordinary Maxims, the remainder being somewhat heavier."

In order to prevent people in England from making away with the wreckage, the following new regulation has been made under the Defence of the Realm Act:

"If any person, having found any bomb or projectile, or any fragment thereof, or any document, map, or other article whatsoever which he has reasonable grounds for believing or suspecting to have been discharged, dropped, or lost from, or to have been carried in or to have formed part of any aircraft or vessel of the enemy, or to have formed part of the equipment or personal effects of any member of the crew of such aircraft or vessel, without lawful authority or excuse neglects forthwith, after finding the same, or, in the case of any such article which was found before October 3rd, 1916, as soon as may be after that date, to communicate the fact to a military post or to a police constable in the neighborhood, or on being so required, neglects to send or deliver the same to the competent naval or military authority or some person authorized by him for the purpose, he shall be guilty of an offense against these regulations.

"Where any such article is found at the place where the aircraft in question or the wreck thereof descended, no person shall, without lawful excuse, displace, remove, or otherwise interfere with such article, and, if any person does so, he shall be guilty of an offence against these regulations."

If you cannot live so as to leave footprints on the sands of time, live at any rate so that you won't have to leave finger prints at police headquarters.

May Cut Down Raids by Zeppelins

British Advances May Force Germans to Move Hangars Back

The great Anglo-French offensive on the Somme in northern France has a direct bearing on future Zeppelin raids on England. This hint was given by a British official in a position to know.

In the Anglo-French forces on the Somme drive a wider and deeper wedge into the German line, the entire line must eventually fall back to straighten itself. This would mean that the allied aerial bases in northern France would also move forward. The natural sequence is that German military and aviation bases, both in Belgium and across the Rhine, become from a strategical and military point of view more legitimate objectives for allied air squadrons. Hitherto, allied air forces have been able to make long distance raids, but not heavy ones.

The great Zeppelin hangars in Belgium, including those now under construction and those in Germany from which the present raiding Zeppelins operate, will become practically useless to Germany.

According to expert opinion, it is not illogical to believe that these hangars and their contents, under such conditions, would be a total loss unless the Germans moved them to safer places. Safer places in this case would mean far into the interior of Germany.

Thus all calculations concerning the Zeppelin radius of action, atmospheric conditions and other scientific problems of Zeppelin raids on England would have to be made over again. Even the radius of the great super-Zeppelins would be seriously cut down and the smaller type of airship probably would become wholly useless so far as "strafing England" is concerned.

A Work for Boys

Parents Should Encourage Farm Boys to Do Things for Themselves

The normal farm boy after he is ten years of age begins to dream of business adventure and doing things for himself. He will do some valuable things for himself, profiting by experience, although the adventure in itself may be a financial failure, yet in most cases his parents break in upon him and spoil his adventures before he has time to realize their full value. Nature prompts the child to work out his salvation with his own hands, but parents, as a rule, think they can direct youthful activities better than Nature herself. In most cases they ignorantly misdirect or totally kill the child's expanding ambition to do something worth while in the world.

The sane and wholesome thing for farm parents to do when their children want to develop some home industry on their own account is to plan with them and aid them in every possible, reasonable way. This kind of co-operative work between parents and children in the country is worth more to farm boys and girls than is a course in manual training or domestic science for town or city boys and girls. It is both educational and productive. It stimulates initiative and gives pride in making work and study a rousing success that nothing else can. The possibilities for farm boys and girls to develop little specialties of their own in the country for making money and learning business are almost unlimited, providing parents co-operate, or simply keep their hands off and allow the boys and girls to work out their own plans unaided.

During the War

Prohibition a Necessity During Stress of War Times

"Thousands of Britain's bravest and best have been maimed and mangled and slaughtered by cruel storms of gas and shell and liquid fire, because away back where war weapons are forged, drinking bars were tempting to heartless idleness the men whose failure left unsent the munitions that would have silenced the carnage wreaking German batteries.

"In hospitals and jails, or weakened or inefficient through drink, are thousands of men who would have been strong and brave defenders of honor, justice and freedom but for the selfish greed of traitors who were ready to debauch and destroy their country's young manhood for the sake of the tainted profits of the poison traffic.

"Is there a single loyal citizen who will not back with all his heart and soul the strong demand of high purpose and patriotic appeal that Ontario shall have at least and at once, prohibition during the war?"

The above from the Pioneer puts a horrible truth in graphic language. Those risking their lives for us have that risk doubled and their efficiency lessened by the damnable poisoners licensed and unlicensed. For we must not lay all the blame on the shoulders of the saloon keeper. A hostess invites a party of officers to her home and there plies them with this poison that the Toronto Board of Health says is worse than morphine or cocaine. She is either criminally ignorant or she is a traitor doing her bit to help the Germans.

And notwithstanding all the lessons of this war and of science, certain men claiming to be educated gentlemen not only drink themselves, but they tempt their guests, regardless of King and Country. While the great majority are doing their best to help, such men are doing more harm than they probably know. Let us hope that it is mere lack of knowledge and not utter indifference to the outcome of this terrible struggle. It seems as if nothing but total prohibition will save us from this poisoning craze.—H. Arnott, M.B., M.C.P.S.

ANGLO-SAXONS FIGHTING TO-DAY FOR FREEDOM AS IN THE PAST

RIGHT OF FREE PEOPLE TO GOVERN THEMSELVES

Issue of the World War Is Outlined by Dr. Macdonald, of Toronto, Who Addressed the Illinois Society of the Sons of American Revolution at Anniversary Meeting Held in Chicago

Dr. J. A. Macdonald, of Toronto, was the chief speaker at a banquet in Chicago, held under the auspices of the Illinois Society of the Sons of the American Revolution, on the occasion of the 135th anniversary of the battle of Yorkton. In the course of his address he said:

This occasion is significant at least in this: for the first time in your history you have chosen as your commemoration speaker a British subject. It would seem as though the division of the English-speaking world, which scored and scarred the 18th century, does not, in this 20th century, divide the English-speaking peoples. And it seems, too, that the estrangement of the American colonies from Britain, and their separation from what history must forever call their Mother Country, was not an estrangement or a separation that cut down to the roots of the things that are deepest, most real, and most permanent on either side. The flags were divided, but both remained, and still remain, "Red, White and Blue." The forms of government were changed, but never once, in America or in Britain, has there been persistent disloyalty to those Anglo-Saxon principles of civil liberty, which, as the common heritage of both, run back through their common history of more than fifteen hundred years.

When the Royal Highland Regiments, three thousand strong, marched out of Fayetteville, North Carolina, on February 18, 1776, their tartan colors flying, their bagpipes playing "wi' an unco flare," the air filled with the battle-cries of their clans, among the hundreds of Macdonald clansmen was one, Iain MacEwan Oig, who on that day carried for George III. and the House of Hanover the same broadsword he carried thirty years before, on the fateful field of Culloden Moor, for Prince Charles Edward and the House of Stuart. That man was my great-great-grandfather; and with him marched and fought three of his sons, one of them a young Corporal whose name I bear. And his fourth son fought under Lord Cornwallis.

The fortunes of the war brought that whole family of Macdonald clansmen to Nova Scotia. In 1783, after the war was over, they were each given soldiers' grants of land in the wide valley of the East River, in the county of Pictou. And there, on one of the family homesteads, old and gnarled, but living still, and in witness of events we celebrate here tonight, there grows the "Cornwallis Apple Tree."

After stating that the Highlanders of Carolina, Jacobites to a man in '45, fought for the Hanoverian King because of a solemn oath of loyalty taken after Culloden, and remained true to their word and to the sacredness of "a scrap of paper," Dr. Macdonald continued:

The real issue at stake in the revolutionary war was larger than the fortunes of any party, far larger than at that time was known or dreamed on either side. The real issue was the idea of human freedom, the idea that a free people have the right to govern themselves.

That idea is associated with the name Anglo-Saxon. I sometimes call it the North American idea. Not that it was first conceived in America, and not that its origin and history are Anglo-Saxon alone. The idea of government of the people by the people and for the people, in its most primitive form and with its elementary institutions, does indeed run far back through the centuries and into the homes of the Angles and the Saxons in the dark forests of northern Germany and around the mouth of the Elbe. Fifteen hundred years ago those seafaring sires of the first Englishmen piloted their ways over the strange waters, and, following the retreating Romans, founded their colonies in ancient Britain, called the country Engla-land, and set free their Anglo-Saxon idea.

That Anglo-Saxon spark was the primitive idea of the right of a free people to govern themselves. It was only an idea, and through the centuries it had to fight for its life. It fought the military despotism of the Romans. It fought the feudalism of the Normans. It fought the autocracy of the Stuarts. It fought the dull reactions of the early Hanoverians. It fought, in men like Walpole and Pitt and Peel, for responsible government. It fought the Germanized Georges of that day and the half-junker Government of Lord North for the rights of Anglo-Saxons and Anglo-Celts in the American colonies. It fought, and it is fighting, still—that original Anglo-Saxon idea—fighting in Europe, fighting in America, fighting on every battlefront of the human mind, fighting sometimes to the death, but always for freedom—fighting everywhere, in Belgium, in France, in Poland, in the Near East, on the west front—everywhere the idea of freedom fights for the right of a free people to govern themselves.

Ready to Fight at Any Time

Holland Is Determined to Protect Her Neutrality

The Dutch government is ready to go to war at any moment to protect Holland's neutrality. Dutch officials admit it.

Holland is not tempting fate, though. Her diplomats and influential newspapers are doing their best to keep her from any combination of circumstances that might force her to side with one belligerent or the other in the war.

Dutch officials candidly admit they will fight England or any unneutral act against or upon Dutch soil, and that the same thing goes for Germany. Holland will fight her for the same reasons and just as quickly.

Holland is devoting as much time, material and energy to the upbuilding of her army as she is to the development of her navy.

Today it is the Queen who is the "woman of the hour," and the real leader of the government of Holland. Every morning at 6.30 she is at her desk and she works all day. She attends every ministerial council and she is said to have written the cleverest parts of many of Holland's protest notes to both Great Britain and Germany.

Holland, as is well known, is building a great many submarines. A few days ago a new one was launched and the Queen went out in it for half an hour, travelling part of the time under water. The Queen observes strict neutrality in her own household. Her husband, Prince Henry, was a German prince from Mecklenburg, so there is naturally some feeling among pro-ally Dutch about this. His loyalty to Holland is not questioned, but in order not to have him suspected in any way he is told none of the secrets of state. He is made chief of the Red Cross, so he can have something to do, but in this work he is subject to the orders of General Schneider, chief of the General staff.

FOR THOSE IN FRANCE

(By ROBERT J. C. STEAD)

HE heard the call of country clear;
He weighed no circumstance;
Afar from those who held him dear
He lies tonight—in France.

The tears of pride were in her eye;
All love was in her glance;
She sent him forth, if need, to die,
To die for you—in France.

His babies lip their prayer to Him
Who errs by no mischance;
While in the trenches, bleak and grim,
Their father fights in France.

For lips that pray, and eyes that weep,
And hearts that feel the lance,
Dig down, dig down, dig down, down deep,
And pay—for those in France.

Granum News

Peter Johnson sold to Geo. Frank a half section of land, about five miles east of Granum, last week.

Ken. McGregor has sold his race horse, Carbon, to Ed. McRae, of Stavely, for $550. Fred McDougall drove the horse to Stavely last Saturday.

Dr. Dan McMillan is breaking his colt to take the place of Carbon at the coming races. Humpy will have to travel some to beat him.

Sunday evening, Rev McInnis was appointed president of the Granum branch of the Bible Society. Mrs R. Richards was asked to continue as sec. treasurer for the ensuing year, but declined, as she expects to be sent for several months. Mrs. S. Lytle was then elected

A very interesting service was held on Sunday evening. Reports on the Social Service Conference, recently held in Calgary, were given by Mrs. [illegible] Gregory and Mrs. Steve Stewart.

Ralph Lepard purchased a half section of land from Sam Travis, last Saturday.

Jack McKenzie left for the east on Wednesday.

Mrs. Ross Laughton and Mr and Mrs. Reynolds are leaving for the east on Saturday.

The G.G.G. met at Mrs. J. Marsh's on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lepard moved to their new cottage at Woodhouse, this week.

Mr. Jasman has purchased 200 acres of land from Bob Herman, Wednesday last, paying $20 per acre The land is five miles south of Granum.

Truman Moltby, and John Daly, of Meadow Creek, were visitors in Claresholm last Friday.

J. F. Hagerman and wife from Calgary spent the week-end with Mrs. Hagerman's brother, Allan Ellis, last week.

About 50 Granumites were at Claresholm last Wednesday evening to attend the show there. They were hardly able to find their way home on account of the wind storm.

Miss Schoof went to Claresholm on Friday evening, to visit her brother.

Several of the young people of the town went to a dance at Cut Bank school last Friday evening.

Granum was wsll represented in Calgary on Tuesday of this week. Those who were there were ; Mrs. Paul Clark and son, Ray ; Mrs. Chas. Thompson, Mrs. D. M. Leyden, Mr. McDermid, Mr, A. Deman, Jas. Brown and son Frank and Mrs. Waline. It seemed to be Granum day in Calgary.

C. Moore was in Monarch on Wednesday of this week.

Santa Claus is displaying a large portion of his toys in our town.

Daley Creek

At the close of the contest of the Women's Institute. Capt. Waterstreet's side won, but in place of the defeated side giving the winners a banquet as was first agreed, both sides will unite in getting up a banbuet. Capt. Laughton's side will wait on the tables. Thirty new members have been added to the Women's Institute.

Walter Byer spent the fore part of the week in Calgary

Mary Lang is visiting in Medicine Hat.

A. Radkie went to Calgary last week and brought back a bride.

The Busy Bees Society met with Mrs. D. Laughton on Wednesday. A great deal of work is being done for the Red Cross by this little unit.

Mr. W. Cochran is moving to the flats in a few days.

Hill Breezes

G. B. Smith is having some difficulty in locating his horses. We are suspicious that there is some attraction in the hills and that the horses are not all he is looking for. Leap year will soon be over and if the match does not strike pretty soon it will mean another long four years of waiting. Better jump quick, G.B.

The new Dodge is all ready, and there are some fine rides in store for the girls.

Andrew Paulz has gone threshing again. He was feeling quite taken down at the double wedding that took place recently. Never mind, there are as good fish in the sea as have ever been caught. Try again, old sport.

Some of the Granum sports have been looking for deer in the hills.

Don't look for trouble. You are pretty well known and you will find no one worse than yourself.

After an exciting hunt a bob cat was killed, so the report goes. We have been wondering if it was not some poor dog that fell a victim.

Wheat hauling and delivering hogs seems to be the order of the day around here lately.

Ford Remmington is making his regular trips to Granum again.

Mr. S. S. Nico is thinking of going to Granum for the winter to follow his old trade of barber in the stand occupied by Mr. Reynolds.
